DE LAP EXPLODES

It was rather surprising to learn from news dispatches that Assemblyman T. H. De Lap is of the explosive type.

Perhaps the statement does the gentleman an injustice; I am convinced that it does, for just because a man occasionally explodes it does not justify the conclusion that he is temperamental or explosive. There are times when explosions are more than justified, do the exploder good and serve notice that it is not wise to fool with a hidden cache of dynamite.

In our contacts with the gentleman we have always found him to be of a most equable disposition, slow to anger and calm under very aggravating circumstances. However, that character analysis does not mean to convey the impression that he will stand for any foolishness without striking back. Playing the game straight, he expects and demands that others do the same and when they do not he is heard from.

It seems that lobbyists are the straw men on whom everything is blamed at the legislature, and if a solon is unsuccessful in pushing through some pet measure the disappointed advocate takes his wrath out on the members of the third house. Such an occasion arose in the Assembly the other day. The same old line was being peddled. One of the Assemblymen in discussing a bill said that public utility lobbyists had been running after the Assembly judiciary committee like "mice after cheese." It was then that De Lap heatedly took exception to the remarks, exclaiming:

"I'm one of those pieces of cheese. Your bill was given a fair hearing and the decision was not reached as a result of lobbying. To hell with the lobbyists."

MORE POWER TO YOU
Those are strong words, Mr. De Lap, but there is no question in my mind but that you meant them. More strength to you in expressing your convictions. We may not always agree with you, but we admire a man who has the intestinal fortitude to say what he thinks, and in the final analysis that is the kind of a man the people can pin their faith to.

ONCE WE AGREE

While on legislative subjects we are pleased to discover that Senator Sharkey, also of this county, is in unison with the thought we expressed the other day that the greatest blessing that could happen

MONEY LOSES ANOTHER PLEA

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., April 19.—UP—Tom Mooney lost another first round in a renewal of his battle for freedom today when Superior Judge Edward J. Butler denied a writ of habeas corpus.

The decision had been anticipated by Mooney's attorneys.

It was expected that immediate moves would be made to take the case to higher state courts.

The writ of habeas corpus was filed in the Marin county court after the United States supreme court had recommended that Mooney's case be carried through California courts before the nation's highest tribunal was asked to rule on it.

Mooney has been fighting for complete pardon for almost 19 years. He was convicted of participation in the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

The United States supreme court recommendation was contained in a decision in which that court declined to entertain Mooney's plea, but suggested that it might reconsider the motion if state courts afforded Mooney no relief.

Napoleon's Jewels

THESE JEWELS, valued at more than $500,000 were given by Napoleon Bonaparte to Marie Louise of Austria on the occasion of the birth of their son L'Aiglon. They were displayed by the model, during the Forum of American Designers at Atlantic City, who wore a cloth of gold classic evening dress especially designed for them, with the shoulder line slightly lowered. The jewels were not for sale.

AMELIA IS ON RECORD FLIGHT

BURBANK, April 19.—UP—

Riding her high-winged red monoplane in which she spanned the Atlantic and the Pacific, Amelia Earhart Putnam soared away into the darkness tonight, bound for Mexico City, 1,750 miles away.

She took off from the silver ribbon runway at 9:58, circled the field and shot away into the misty haze of a full moon. The takeoff was perfect. The flier skimmed over the east runway of the field and headed due north.

As the ship roared off the ground it circled to the left, flying low and turned toward Los Angeles.

Protest March Staged In L. A.

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—UP—

More than 2,000 persons staged a demonstration at a theatre and marched upon the city hall late today in protest against the beating of two co-eds during the recent college student strike against war.

During the demonstration preceding the march, Eugene W. Kent, who characterized himself as an "American" drew a gun and was arrested for disturbing the peace.

According to police, Kent, defeated candidate for city council in Glendale, drew a gun during a speech by Robert Noble, leader of the demonstrators.

POLL SHOWS OPPOSITION IS GROWING

WASHINGTON, April 19.—UP—

President Roosevelt's entire power program was placed in jeopardy today as a poll of the House Military Affairs Committee indicated the Administration's bill to strengthen and expand the activities of the TVA faced almost certain defeat.

The situation was regarded by party leaders as so critical that one member of the committee has appealed strongly to the Chief Executive to intervene in a last-minute effort to salvage the important New Deal proposal.

REPORT EXPECTED
A report of the bill is expected soon. It proposes to increase the amount of bonds which the TVA may issue to finance its operations from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000; to conduct a soil erosion program in seven States; to authorize the purchase by the TVA of municipal power plants if the people show by referendum vote that such action is desired.

In addition, the bill gives TVA specific authority to generate, transmit and distribute power. This provision is intended to counteract a recent Federal court ruling that the TVA could not

NEW POLICIES FOR BRIDGE CO.

VALLEJO, April 19.—Reorganization of the board of directors of the American Toll Bridge company, operators of the Carquinez bridge, took place here today with the elections of new officers.

Charles G. Clyne of Benic, president since the resignation of Oscar Klatt three months ago, was reelected president. He and Dr. H. E. Peters of Pittsburg are the only members reelected.

The new board includes B. D. Horrall of Oakland; Mrs. Audrey V. Heck, widow of the late Avon Hanford, former executive of the company; Benjamin R. Alken of Lamont; Dudley S. Sales, Louis J. Breuner of Oakland; C. M. Boynton of Berkeley; O. D. Jacoby of Oakland, and Dr. H. E. Peters.

The new officers, selected by the bridge management, enunciated a "new policy" following their election, declaring they plan to refinance outstanding obligations with a dividend-paying basis again.

They pointed out that the present first and second mortgage bonds, issued in 1926 and 1927 at rates of 7 and 8 per cent interest, will be refunded into 10-year term bonds at 4 1/2 per cent. This, according to Clyne, will make possible a $250,000 dividend payment immediately.

Policies of the old board, headed by Klatt, new members said, will be changed, and stockholders of the company will be given full information on the company's activities.

Board members ousted by the election include Klatt, George Calder, A. P. Hendricksen, Victor Heck, Roy E. Shurtliff, Donald Y. Lamont and Dudley S. Sales.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY WARD are moving to Brentwood where they will make their home.

U.S. Board Is Told To End Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—UP—

A new ultimatum threatening drastic action was delivered by coast oil tanker operators today to a special mediation board attempting to settle strikes of some 2,000 union seamen aboard the vessels.

The operators warned that unless the strike has been terminated on or before April 26, they will withdraw in parts terms offered strikers on April 5.

STAND TOLD
These terms included permission to union representatives to board tankers, and agreement to discharge all workers aboard the ships who are not bona fide seamen, with no further men to be employed until former workers had been given opportunity of reemployment.

The ultimatum was delivered to the board on the eve of a meeting at 10:30 a. m., Saturday. Other terms that those mentioned will stand as in the memorandum of April 5, the operators said.

NO DISCRIMINATION
"Employment will continue on the basis of merit; there will be no discrimination on account of union affiliation or activity; men who have left their employment will be welcomed to come back as long as jobs are available and their reemployment will be on the same basis of wages, hours and working conditions which we have on file with you," the operators informed the board.

"All that stands in the way of more men returning to work is the refusal of their union leaders to release them," the operators declared after stating that former workers were understood to have found the published work schedules satisfactory.

The operators said they had "published to the world our schedules of employment with the offer to consider any amendment your board thinks we should adopt."

Muster Night Is Held By Veterans

Muster night was held by Admiral Dewey Camp of United Spanish War Veterans last night at Memorial hall with a record attendance of veterans of the war with Spain.

Commander Jack Bodin presided over the business meeting and welcomed a large group of visitors who came here from Oakland and Berkeley to take part in the local camp's festivities.

Commander Clifford Hunt, of Honor Post, V. F. W., of Richmond and Commander Walters of McCord Camp, U. S. W. V., of Berkeley were two of the honored guests.

At the business meeting the camp went on record opposing organization of a group of constables in the eastern end of the county.

Following the business meeting a dinner was served by Comrades Robert Benton, Theodore Kaplan, and John Kovic.

NEW DEALERS WIN BATTLE ON PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, April 19.—UP—

The New Deal's plan to help 25,000,000 workers provide against the spectres of old age and unemployment won House approval today by the tremendous majority of 375 to 25.

The economic security bill, putting the government into an entirely new field of social welfare, now goes to the Senate. Before passing it, the House emphatically rejected the Townsend old age pension plan and the Lindbergh unemployment insurance bill.

BILLS PROVISIONS
The Administration bill provides:

1—State unemployment insurance, subject to Federal approval and financed through a payroll tax starting at one per cent in 1936 and increasing to three per cent in 1938.

2—Pensions for needy persons over 65, with an initial government contribution of $19,500,000 and federal matching of state pensions up to a maximum of $15 per month per individual.

3—Contributory old age benefits from reserves to be created through a graduated two to six per cent tax divided between payrolls and earnings, starting in 1937.

4—Federal aid totaling $20,000,000 to states having maternal and child aid.

PROBLEM ANSWERED
The bill represented the New Deal's answer to some of the problems arising out of America's depression.

LONG REFUSES BRIDGE MONEY

BATON ROUGE, La., April 19.—

UP—A proposed seven million dollar bridge across the Mississippi river here tonight became the first victim in Senator Huey Long's war with the Federal government over relief funds.

A. P. Tugwell, chairman of the Louisiana highway commission, a Secretary of Interior, sent a telegram to Long yesterday, announcing the state was withdrawing from the project rather than leave it to a state board which he dominated.

Long threatened to withdraw all federal aid from the state, rather than let Long get control of it.

Attempted Robbery Reported To Cops

One burglary and an attempted robbery were reported to local police yesterday morning.

Someone entered the E. H. Higgins warehouse at Sixth street and Ohio avenue some time Thursday night, but failed to take anything of any value.

Police were told that an attempt was made to jimmy open the office door of the San Pablo Lumber Company at Eighth and Ohio. The would-be burglar was frightened away, however.

Sterilization Inquiry Now Joint Probe

MARTINEZ, April 19.—Members of the hospital and social service committees of the grand jury were checking today over the fact that their joint meeting here Thursday night was held with such secrecy that it escaped the ardent reporters, and no mention of it was made in the Friday county papers.

The session lasted until nearly midnight, and the subject under discussion was the sterilization report prepared by Deputy District Attorney Rex Boyer and submitted to the social service committee some time since. The report has never been made public.

At the Wednesday meeting of the full membership of the grand jury the social services said they wanted to devote more time to the study of the report. In the general discussion that followed the intimation was given that as far as the social service committee was concerned, its labors in connection with the investigation were ended. This view was expressed by reason of the fact that the original investigation by the

SPROUL IS ORDERED TO FACE SOLONS

SACRAMENTO, April 19.—UP—

California legislators were "seeing red" tonight as movements developed on three fronts looking toward investigation of communism in California, particularly at the University of California and other institutions of higher learning in the state.

No sooner had a reply been received from Robert Gordon Sprout, president of the University of California, relative to a stand taken by 18 university professors, than Dr. Sprout was "asked" to appear before the Assembly judiciary committee.

AWAIT OUTCOME
The outcome of this conference was expected to play an important part as to whether Assemblyman J. E. Frazier, Gridley, will urge action on his proposed resolution calling for appointment of a special committee to investigate subversive activities in California's "junior colleges, state colleges and universities."

Much of the controversy centered around the professors' telegram which protested passage of certain anti-red bills before the judiciary committee earlier in the week.

ANSWER GIVEN
Assemblyman Frank G. Martin, telegraphed Dr. Sprout to determine if the protest represented the general attitude of the university administration.

In his answer, Dr. Sprout declared that the loyalty of the school would never waiver and that it would never "condone any actions contrary to the laws of the state."

Assemblyman Martin said he was "astounded" and "stirred to deep resentment" by the professors' action and questioned the protesting of the bill in its entirety "instead of having the courage to appear in person."

LAMSON BRIBE CHARGE HURLED

SAN JOSE, April 19.—UP—Defense forces today amplified charges that Deputy Sheriff John Moore offered to keep from the retrial of David Lamson testimony that Lamson was seen the night before his wife's body was found, "his arm about a blond woman," in a parked automobile.

Ed Rea, associate defense counsel and chief attorney for Lamson in his first trial on murder charges, expanded on Moore's alleged offer, saying he "probably" could get a prosecution witness not to testify regarding the asserted parked car incident. Moore intimated that "a few hundred dollars" might be needed to effect the move, Rea said.

RECORDS WILL
EVENTS TODAY

BERKELEY, April 19.—UP—Ten "Big Meet" track and field records in addition to the Stanford record of 11 consecutive victories over California, were to be endangered Saturday as the traditional rivals clashed in Edwards field in their 42nd dual meet.

For the first time since 1926, no choice exists between the two squads. The only point on which track followers are agreed is that times and distances in most events may be the fastest in the schools' history.

The oldest record on the books—"Skin Wilson's mark of 4:20.2 seconds in the mile, established in 1914—will be threatened in the opening event of the program by Bob Heavey, California sophomore and Chuck Nimmo, Stanford four lap star.

Heavey was clocked in 4:20 in placing second to Francis Benavidez of U. S. C. and Nimmo has covered the distance in 4:19.7. Warren Dixon, Nimmo's teammate, has improved rapidly in recent weeks and may surprise by coming home ahead of the favored pair.

Ir George Anderson, California sophomore sprint ace, chooses to open up in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Bob Kissel's marks of 9.6 seconds and 21.1 may be shattered. With no one from Stanford to press him, it was believed unlikely Anderson would go after the 100 mark, although he may step out for at least 21 flat in the 220.

Al Blackman of Stanford, 1. C. 44 quarter mile champion, is expected to smash Emerson (Bud) Spencer's mark of 48 seconds flat in the 440. After running off form in early meets, Blackman staged an amazing comeback to race Jimmy LaVale of UCLA off his feet with a blazing 47.8 last week, and hopes to repeat on the fast Berkeley oval.

Bob Fowler, California two mile runner, appears an almost certain record-breaker in the eight lap run, as he has turned the long grid almost seven seconds under the record of 9:38.2, set in 1928 by Coe of Stanford.

Speaking of Sports

LONDON, April 19.—UP—Miss Joyce Wethered, whom most people regard as the best woman golfer the world ever has known, is to tour the United States in exhibition matches this summer.

Miss Wethered will receive $200 for every 18 holes, and a percentage of the profits. She thus will settle once and for all the problem of whether she is a professional, or an amateur.

While most people regard her as a professional, the question never has officially arisen. Since she accepted the position of golf advisor in a London store five or six years ago, she never has attempted to play in official amateur competition.

Miss Wethered says the position will be unchanged by her tour, which means that she realizes she has barred herself from amateur tournaments.

Joyce won the British Women's Open Championship four times, the last time in 1929. She then announced her retirement from first-class golf, and became the first British woman golf advisor. Her duties were confined to advising women what clubs to use and what clothes to wear.

Some maintained that because she did not give instruction she therefore was still an amateur. Others, reading the rules in the strictest sense, declared that she was using her golfing ability for financial gain, and therefore was a professional.

Miss Wethered will sail for America May 2. She will stay there about eight weeks. Her chief opponent probably will be Miss Helen Hicks, professional since last year.

She is almost certain to have matches with some of the leading American professional men golfers, and, with or without handicap, she can give them a good game.

Outfielder Danny Taylor and a pair of pitchers, Watson Clark and Johnny Babich, took the stellar roles in the double triumph. Taylor belted a home run with the bases full in the first inning to drive in all the Brooklyn runs in the afternoon contest. Clark and Babich hurled steadily, allowing nine and eight hits, respectively. Babich fanned Babe Ruth three times. Clark, pitching his first complete game in nearly a year, drove in the winning runs in the opening with a second-inning single.

The Oakland Oaks took possession of first place in the Coast League yesterday by virtue of an 8 to 1 victory over the Seattle Indians in the opening of a four-game series at Emeryville.

While the Oaks were winning their sixth straight victory, the Los Angeles Angels, who have been in first place since the season started, lost an 8 to 3 decision to the Hollywood squad.

Tom Conlan was on the mound for the Oaks and he hurled good ball throughout and he had mighty hitting help from the Oaks. Bryan was the heavy stick man for the Oaks getting four hits in four trips to the plate. Keyes got three bingles and scored three runs.

The Oaks are showing more pep this year than since 1927 when they won the pennant.

Frank Shellenbach, manager of the Hollywood team, won his 27th ball game in the Coast League when he led his team to an 8 to 3 victory over the Angels. It was the Los Angeles team's second defeat of the season.

The hapless San Francisco club lost another game when the Sacramento solons nosed them out, 5 to 4, at Sacramento. The Seals made a total of 10 hits but Salvo kept them scattered. Sacramento touched Stutz for seven bingles.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

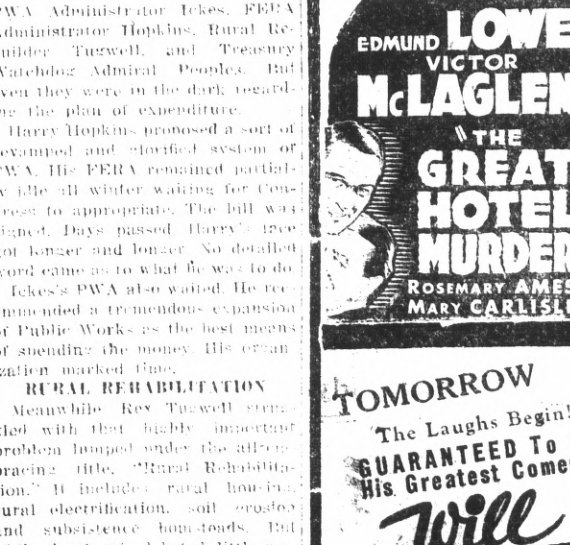

WASHINGTON, April 19. — Discussion of plans to spend the $1,500,000,000 just appropriated for work-relief has exposed an almost unbelievable procrastination within the Administration.

Close advisers of the President are extremely loath to admit that they have gradually decided upon the largest appropriation in history. The President found the bill totally unprepared for its expenditure.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, April 19. — New York's bravest manhood has found a new way of making whoopee.

It is the former "Lunch-Club" Yale Harvard and Pennsylvania athletes appeared as manly in a flash. They were the other day, and it nearly turned into a riot. The comedy looks — who demonstrate men's clothing, he said in all fairness — occurred on the stage of the Rainbow Room in Radio City for the benefit of Bryn Mawr College's fiftieth anniversary endowment campaign.

Hosts Bertie, 1932 all-American end, Grant McDougal, 1933 Olympic hammer thrower, Tracy J. 1932 Olympic fencer, Jimmy Miller, Yale hockey and polo player, and the other Apollo, did their act with professional finesse. They finished up with a bright party in which a group of society women acted as partners, but the fashion show was the chief wow of the festivities.

DON took Carmie's arm and they went out again to the waiting taxi. Don did not relish the prospect of taking Carmie to his apartment. But he was all on edge and felt he could not go away without finding out more about her and Jarred. What was the connection between them?

Don unlocked the door of his apartment. Carmie walked in ahead of him. He switched on the lights. Carmie slipped out of her cloak and curled up on a couch.

"Now I demand lots of service," she said with a slow smile.

Don bowed. "I have a bottle of good whiskey in the kitchenette," he said. "If she took a couple of drinks, would Carmie talk?"

"We will sample it," she said, in a husky voice.

BRIDE BY LEGACY

By R. G. MONTGOMERY

Mary Dean is trapped by her uncle's will, which divides his fortune between her and her younger brother and sister, Jerry and Ann, only on condition that Mary marries Jarred Marsh, a young man from South America who has never been seen until he arrives for the reading of the will. She agrees to marry him for the sake of Jerry and Ann, unaware that Jarred and Carmie De Los, secretary in the Dean home, are confederates in a plot to get hold of the money. But Don Harvey, newspaper reporter, who is in love with Mary, suspects something wrong. However, Mary refuses to listen to him, so he decides to go away — to China. Carmie determines to make sure he is going. She plays up to him, and Don, hoping to make her talk, asks her to his apartment.

Don glanced surreptitiously at his watch. Carmie saw him and "ughed."

"I'll have to be running along now," she rose and walked without swaying to where she had dropped her cloak. "And you need not take me home."

"But I will," Don protested. "No. I'll get a taxi at the stand down the street," she smiled archly. "You have been very nice."

"Go as far as the stand," said Don.

"That will be nice."

Don put her in a taxi and gave the driver the fare. Carmie leaned out of the window.

"Goodbye. Say hello to Shanghai for me." With a wave of her hand, she was gone.

Don watched the taxi disappear. Well, he had learned nothing, except that Carmie was able to drink a lot and was able to take care of herself. He turned and walked slowly back toward his apartment.

MARY stirred in her sleep. She turned over and listened. Yes, she could hear voices out in the hall. She raised herself on one elbow and looked at the luminous clock on the stand beside her bed. It was one o'clock.

She slipped out of bed and went to the door. Opening it just a little, she peeped out.

Carmie was standing in the hall before Jarred's door. She was swaying a little. Jarred was whispering angrily to her. Mary caught his words clearly in the stillness.

"What have you been doing out to this hour?"

"I've been saying goodbye to the boy friend before he pulls out for Shanghai," Carmie laughed unsteadily. "We had the loveliest time in his apartment."

She waved a little to Jarred and walked on down the hall. Jarred seemed about to follow her, then went into his room and slammed his door. Carmie entered her room, and Mary stood shivering, staring down the hall.

Carmie and Don, she shut her eyes tight. It could not be true! And yet it was. A lump rose in her throat and choked her. She ran back to her bed and tumbled in. What was it all coming to?

Sproul Defends 18 Professors

BERKELEY, April 19.—Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, president of the University of California, today stoutly defended 18 professors who had been criticized for signing a protest against so-called "anti-Red" bills before the state legislature.

"They do not advocate nor sympathize with the overthrow of the American system of government by force or other unlawful means," Dr. Sproul said.

His statement was made in a telegram to Assemblyman Frank G. Martin, author of one of the bills. Martin had inquired of Dr. Sproul whether any administrative action would be taken against the 18 professors.

"I am informed their protest was against Section 39-B on page two of the printed bill which they believe would make felons of the regents for possessing certain literature in the university library, and of members of the faculty for transporting such literature to their classrooms and commenting upon it, even to show up fallacies," Dr. Sproul said.

to the people of the State would be for the legislature to pass the revenue bills necessary for the operation of governmental activities, and go home and stay there for a couple of years. Of course the distinction between the idea in different and better language, but although the verb is covering, it is different it is heartening to find that for once we are in perfect accord. Quoth the Senator in a speech for the upper house: "The state would have saved money by staying at home."

That is refreshing and goes to the heart of the matter. In order to be consistent I would suggest that the senator carry the matter to its logical and delightful conclusion by making a motion that the legislature adjourn.

Two months have rolled by and nothing of moment has been accomplished. The tax program is so muddled that the legislature has taken it out of the hands of the governor and into its own by appointing a joint committee to find a solution. How far this committee will get it is hard to predict but it is not difficult to prophesy that it can produce more results than are apparent today. Let's hope its labors will be productive of something tangible within a limited time, and get the agony over.

REVIVING OLD LAW

Much to my surprise I find that some of our Democratic friends are very thin skinned. It is also something new in American history to discover an attempt to revive the old, and we thought discarded law, of lese majeste. There is a concerted howl going up by those who are holding lucrative jobs under the Administration for the hanging and quartering of those who dare indulge in criticism of the President's policies. This propaganda, naturally and logically springs from a desire to hold on to their sinecures and is further motivated by the dismal thought that the prospect of staying close to the feed trough looks less roseate every day. They foolishly believe that if criticism could be stifled their troubles would be over.

It seems to me that the old and ancient custom of what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander still holds good. I cannot remember when our Bourbon brothers ever muzzled their vocal organs and united in a paean of praise for any Republican president. Any casual reader of history well knows what they did in the days of Lincoln and it was a Democratic Congress that tied the hands of President Hoover and refused to pass legislation that would have aided in solving our economic problems. Why then is it now a crime to disagree with the President's policies?

Unquestionably Mr. Roosevelt is a very fine man and as a man we have great admiration for him; but his policies cannot be the most charitable construction be labeled a success or to have solved any of our problems. Even the leaders of his party openly admit this to be the truth. Having never given any quarter in their political dealings it comes with mighty poor grace from those who are the recipient of the leaves and fishes to start anything in the way of putting their opponents in the doghouse. Their scheme is too transparent to fool anyone, but after all a man should not be too severely condemned for praying for a continuance of his political bread.

Mme. de la Rue is shown with some of the natives.

GEORGIA LOSES PWA FUNDS IN ICKES' RULING

WASHINGTON, April 19.—UP—Hard bitten Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, ousted Georgia officials today from control of relief funds immediately a series of rapid-fire developments brought Republicans into the fight and put an Administration gag on Senator Huey P. Long, Democrat, Louisiana.

When Long gave notice by proxy that he wanted the floor Monday to "blast back the ears" of PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes, Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson got an agreement to limit debate Monday.

THIRD STATE
Georgia is the third state in which Hopkins has taken over relief for the government. The others are Ohio and Louisiana.

Today's developments brought the Republicans into a fight, which already involved Hopkins, Ickes, Long, Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings, Republican stalwart from Delaware, flung at President Roosevelt a phrase the Democrats used to use against former President Hoover and intimated that the relief situation has an unpleasant odor. Ickes rang in that angle yesterday when he said the Louisiana Kingfish suffered from "hallucinations of the intellect."

MAN ABOUT TO BE EXECUTED SCORES WOMAN

SMITHLAND, Ky., April 19.—UP—An amazed, electrified populace that stood in a natural amphitheatre and watched William Thomas Deoboe hanged, tonight recounted the finest words of his person on the scaffold.

For nearly an hour—55 minutes to be exact—Deboe, a confessed robber, lectured in mild, emphatic tones to the society that gathered his life for outraging the wife of a Kentucky merchant, a crime he denied.

1,500 PRESENT
While more than 1,500 spectators from Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois, and Kentucky crowded the slopes of a hill looking down into the 100-foot enclosure for the scaffold, Deboe poured forth the last reactions of a doomed man.

The crowd was silent when he demanded to know whether his accuser was in the crowd. She was, but she remained silent until Deboe's insistence impelled her to cry out:

"Here I am!"

ASKS FOR WOMAN
His first words as he mounted the scaffold in back of the one-story brick Livingston county jail at 5:22 a. m., were:

"Is Mrs. — in the crowd?" Silence answered him. Again he asked, and again silence. Nine times he asked for his accuser. Then she stepped forward.

DEFENDS SELF
Deboe, mild, calm, speaking with a southern accent demanded:

"Woman, are you satisfied?" His accuser, flustered and excited, defended herself when Deboe asserted:

"If I had $300 or $500 to give her, she would not have made the charge."

His accuser flushed and shouted: "Not for a thousand dollars! Not for a thousand dollars!"

Visibly shaken, the woman yet stood steady and straight as Deboe cried:

"You would, yes, you would, too!"

"No, I wouldn't either," she hurled back.

Eyes of the assemblage watched her as she defended herself, quite as much as they did Deboe.

A Few Words on Spring And the Value of Play As a Muscle and Nerve Stimulant

THE calendar and the radio have both announced the official arrival of spring. We had already heard the news from the robin and the red bird. Now we know it for a certainty, because almost by a secret signal its signs are among us. Marbles, kite-flying, hopscotch are under full swing.

In the professional's eyes these games are not merely play. Muscles are being stretched and flexed and co-ordinated. Eyes and ears are growing sharper; lungs are expanding their tissues with oxygen.

Best of all, in the best games the whole nervous system is being steadied and stabilized. None of us have forgotten our marble playing days. How we studied the exact position of that small round blob of glass or agate or common clay!

We practiced in secret and proclaimed our skill in public. We wore out the knees of our trousers and stockings until grandmother sewed beans in the hems of our short pants to keep us from kneeling on the sidewalk or curb. Then what? Just when we assumed the most proper and graceful posture, held the marble in the exactly correct angle of thumb and index finger, a knowing eye, just at that second, some cussed kid on the sidelines yelled, "Miss it! Miss it! Hi Y!" And we missed it!

WELL, it has been just such a distraction as that which has landed many a motorist in the ditch or against a telephone pole or, vastly more serious results, Active play during the growing years will do more to develop muscular agility and control than all the gymnasium practice of later years can supply.

In extensive rural areas of Oriental countries the children are put to work at a very early age, carrying water and wood, driving the buffalo, or tending the goat. Those areas never seem to develop beyond the most primitive stage of agriculture or mechanics.

Psychologists have tried to explain to us that these backward peoples owe their lack of progress to this absence of happy, carefree play during the years when inventiveness or skill might have been called into use. We need never get too old to play.

WATCH this game of hopscotch going on under the window. Some sort of "tit-tat-to" pattern has been scratched with chalk on the casement. Each player in turn tosses a small article into a section of the pattern. Then, as he hops from one section to another and stops to retrieve the tossed article, it is all done while balancing on one foot or a forfeit must be paid.

It wonder how many muscles are being used and trained? The head is held up, the arms outstretched, each foot is used in turn, bearing the weight of the body and flexing the mechanism from one step to another.

Such poise and strength, coordination and balance, besides grace and rhythm must certainly be developed by pursuits like this.

Meanwhile, I and my kind sit here on a swivel chair, arms pressed hard on the desk, pen gripped tight, pipe clenched between our jaws, and try to think we are making a living. Shucks! Let's go out and play!

Choosing Perennials

What seed shall we sow? Of the twelve perennials listed here, the first six bloom early, the others later in the season.

Anemone provides clusters of large, gentian blue flowers. Doronicum or Leopard's-Bane has daisy-like yellow flowers.

Geum—inconspicuous as to plant but brilliant as to flowers. Pyrethrum or Fainted Daisies, frequently called Spring Flowering Chrysanthemums.

Trollius or Globe-Flower is an early bloomer. The Viola look like miniature pansies.

Aconitum or Monkshood takes up the job of furnishing desirable blue.

Achillea or Windflower are among the finest of autumn flowering plants. Eupatorium or Mist Flowers have light blue flowers.

Helleborus or the hardy Sunflower. The Tritoma is often dubbed the Red Hot Poker Plant.

Veronica-Speedwell has its place in both rock gardens and hardy borders.

Guide to Charm GIRLS SHOULD PREPARE HAIR FOR OUTDOORS

By JACQUELINE HUNT

MOST sun-worshippers have learned from bitter experience to take common sense protective measures along with their ultra-violet. You begin your tanning gradually, you use oils and creams to prevent burning and to keep your skin soft and evenly colored, but how many of you are so thoughtful when you come to hair?

Even though you have been giving your hair reconditioning treatments for an Easter permanent, the hair may not be up to par after months spent in stuffy rooms and often tucked under tight hats that interfere with the free circulation so essential to healthy scalp.

Yet you spend hours in your garden hatless and with your hair whipping loose in every breeze that passes. The sun feels good on your head and it is good when taken properly.

You can make your outdoor hours real beautifying hair treatments if you will follow this scheme:

Before you go out of doors apply a good hair tonic or a special corrective preparation for excess oiliness, dryness or dandruff.

Now in the sun or go about with these scalp conditions. Part the hair at intervals and apply the liquid directly to the scalp with absorbent cotton. Massage for an instant then rub your hair with a clean towel to remove excess moisture. Next brush vigorously with upward, outward strokes.

And now, you might use a special preparation developed by a group of hair specialists that does for your hair what a good sun tan oil does for your skin. It prevents burning and drying. This should be applied with an atomizer or applied with cotton down the length of the strands. If you prefer you might use a little scalp pomade (there are many good brands) rubbed well into the ends of the hair and into the scalp.

Now in the sun or go about your gardening and let the sun's rays do their health-giving, stimulating work. After the preparation has disappeared, put on a light, well-ventilated hat of loose straw or crocheted raffia. The hat will prevent the ends of your hair from whipping in the wind, and will check the sun, but you will still get the pleasant warmth and benefit of the fresh air.

Even in your more formal moods, try to wear loose-fitting, well-ventilated hats. The fresh air is about the best tonic that you can give to your scalp and hair.

Have a hot oil shampoo once a month or oftener in mid-summer and now if your hair is extremely dry. And when you dress for going out or when you wish to look particularly lovely at home, spray a little light, fragrant brillianine or lotion on your hair to help set the wave, to keep your hair nicely groomed and to prevent fraying.

With this regular care you are insured of a summer of loveliness.

Alfred H. Schoellkopf, Utilities Tycoon, Declares He's in Favor of Cooperation With Government

AT A TIME when utility companies and their general public scrutiny it is of moment to consider Alfred H. Schoellkopf, president of the Niagara-Hudson Power Corporation, one of the largest utilities holding organizations in the country. Mr. Schoellkopf is one of the younger power men. The statement means much, for he typifies the newer element which is much more given to compromise and co-operation with the Government than the old line executives who looked upon their properties somewhat after the fashion of a feudal lord.

Schoellkopf frankly indorses the proposals for co-operation with the Government, and deplores "the abuses which occurred in certain parts of the industry during the period of general speculation ending in 1929." This aggressive executive has had long training in his field. A native of Buffalo, N. Y., he is the grandson of the late Jacob F. Schoellkopf, German immigrant, who was the first to tap the tremendous power in Niagara. After being graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1915, he immediately joined

New Skirt Line Calls for Front Fulness, But Keeps Idea of Straight Silhouette

TAILORING THE PLAIDS

By IRENE VAIL

New York—The new skirt line, or rather, one of them, is accepted even by women who are sticklers for straight lines. When a skirt may be quite full in the front and still remain straight, that's the skirt to wear. It's very new and very chic, especially in sheer fabrics where the fullness may result from old-fashioned gathers or shirring.

Another tricky skirt silhouette is the harem, with its bloused or turned-under hem, attractive at times and in places, but by no means a bread-and-butter style.

Rather startling is the word from Paris that fashionables are going in for dark foundation garments, in navy blue and brown, no less, for wear under spring tailcoats as well as evening ensembles in these colors. Here is another Victorian fashion revived late but luring. Already one New York store has taken up the torch, showing navy blue in fine chiffon imported elastic girdles fashioned to shape.

Satin and taffeta are being used to a large extent as foundations for sheer afternoon and evening dresses. These are replacing crepe foundations.

Sketched today at the left, a youthful jumper dress is developed in broadcloth of colorful bold plaid design. The blouse is buttoned down the center back with fabric covered buttons. Simple round neckline and brief sleeve sections are details of additional interest.

At the right, a plaid sheer seersucker fabric is adapted to two-piece styling in front-bottom blouse detail. The soft tie self-fabric belt defines the normal waistline planing.

At right of the column is a navy blue coat which buttons down the front and adds a capelet collar and navy faille. The collar is corded and buttons and buckle are of hammered metal.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "I have just returned from Florida, which explains why I am so deeply suntanned. I would like to bleach my skin as quickly as possible so I will look well in my new Easter outfit, which is rather frilly and light in color. I do not care how severe the treatment is as long as it is effective."—Jane.

You are being rather foolish in my opinion. In the limited time you have left you would have to resort to two or three skin peeling with powerful bleaches to leave your skin lily white again. Why not give your skin some warm oil treatments, followed by applications of pure lemon juice, and then if your skin is not as light as you want it, use a rather heavy cream powder base that is tinted but slightly lighter than your skin. In this way you can be fair enough to look well in your frilly clothes without injuring your skin and you will not have to go through the sun-tanning process again in a couple of months.

QUESTION: "Please tell me how to make a strong shampoo liquid that is inexpensive. I want something that will laster easily."—Mrs. C. D. S.

If you have a good hand soap or face soap, why not dissolve a cake of it in one quart of boiling water? You will have a good liquid that will do for at least a dozen thorough shampoos. If you are not satisfied with your hand soap, buy a cake of pure castile soap and dissolve it.

Tasty and Nourishing Dishes for Today Last Days of Oyster Season Suggest Many Inviting Dishes

By JUDITH WILSON

MY CALENDAR has just reminded me that we have only a few weeks more to enjoy the plump and luscious oyster. And it has also alerted me to the fact that there is nothing else quite so grand for perking up appetites that have had a touch of spring fever. Even if you are one of those who rebel at the idea of swallowing a raw oyster, you will be delighted with a real oyster stew or scalloped oysters between a blanket of crisp golden, buttered crumbs.

Oysters should always be cooked quickly in order that they may be succulent, plump and tender. Over-cooking makes oysters tough. In adding oysters to a cream sauce or to milk, cook the oysters first in their own juice and then add them to the hot milk or sauce immediately before serving. Be careful about using odd spices or highly flavored foods with oysters that will mask their own fine flavor.

Scalloped Oysters

Butter a good sized glass plate or shallow baking dish. Arrange a layer of oysters in the dish. Sprinkle with cracker crumbs or part cracker crumbs and part dry bread crumbs, dot liberally with butter and add another layer of oysters. Be sure not to have more than two layers as they will not cook properly and will be less crisp and delicious. Add a final layer of crumbs, more butter a sprinkle of salt and white pepper and enough of the oyster liquor to give the desired moistness. Bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven and serve sizzling hot.

Oyster Croquettes

Bring two dozen live oysters to a boil in their own liquor and remove them from the fire and drain. Chop the oysters fine. In a saucepan put one-half cup each of oyster liquor and cream. Thicken with two tablespoons flour rubbed to a paste with two tablespoons melted butter. Add the oysters and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until very thick. Turn onto a platter and chill then shape into small rolls, dip in slightly beaten egg and fine crumbs. Fry in deep, hot fat. Drain and serve with quartered lemon or with tartar sauce.

Oyster Shortcakes

Cook one pint of oysters in their own liquor until the edges curl. Drain and reserve the liquor. Melt four tablespoons butter, blend in four tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon paprika. Add gradually the liquid drained from the oysters and one cup rich milk. Heat until the sauce boils and stir until thickened. Saute one-half cup sliced mushrooms, one-fourth cup chopped celery in butter and add to the sauce with two tablespoons finely chopped pimiento. Split hot baking powder biscuits, butter and put the oyster sauce between slices on top. This will make six servings.

one-fourth cup wine has been added. Place cooked and buttered spinach in the center of a greased baking platter. Arrange the fillet on top, with one-half pound cooked and shelled shrimp and one-half pound small oysters immersed in their own liquor around it. Blend together two tablespoons melted butter and two tablespoons melted flour. Add the sauce in which the fillet was cooked, when smooth add one-half cup more wine and season with salt and pepper. Pour over the fillet and sprinkle with grated cheese and cook in a moderate oven until the cheese is golden brown.

You and Your Child DIGGING GARDEN HELPS BROADEN CHILD'S HORIZON

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

THIS is the time of the year when children are driven by some elemental urge to dance in water puddles, play in mud and dig in the earth. They trail mud into the house or come in with sand in their shoes. Their clothing is in a dirtied state and the condition of their persons unsightly.

How are you coping with the situation? If you nag, scold or punish, be warned that it won't do any good. Save such punishment if you like for the chill of fall or for when snow comes. But now it is spring, and a child needs to burrow in the earth. So dress him in old clothes or overalls. You might as well: he will probably come home dirty later anyway.

A wise mother will want her child to learn as he digs. She will turn over a corner of the garden to him to cultivate.

One mother helped her child conquer a dislike for lettuce by urging him to plant a little lettuce in the garden. Now he is a lettuce enthusiast.

Whenever he eats lettuce he compares it with that crop of his own. No lettuce ever tasted quite like it. And it is no exaggeration. You cannot compare vegetables which you may buy as fresh with those sweet, earthy flavored ones which you pick fresh yourself.

To instill an appreciation and liking for a particular vegetable, or vegetables in general, try a garden. The suggestion is sure to delight the child. It being spring and digging time, gardening affords a real creative experience because of which a boy cannot help but grow up a better man, and a girl a better woman.

A child of three is not too young to start a garden. You may have to do most of the work, but whatever small fraction is contributed by the child, be it only the digging, the child will learn from nature about seeds, growth and beauty. He won't be likely to pull up mother's flower beds or trample them down. Try a window-box, if you have no garden. To some extent every child needs to wallow in dirt, but at the same time don't neglect to give his soul a chance to grow.

HONEST WOMAN ADVERTISES TO RETURN JEWEL

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19. —UP— Anna L. L. Hill, widow, in need of money, lately held to her theory that honesty is the best policy today.

She inserted a five-line classified ad in a San Francisco newspaper, telling of the finding of a 14-karat diamond and another 14-karat 12.50 mesh pearl, and asked that the owner communicate with her. She had found the pearl 25 years ago.

Here is the story back of the find.

Twenty years ago, a youthful, well and happily married to a wealthy William Hill, she lived in the San Francisco of pre-earthquake days. Husband Bill was a coachman to one of the city's first families.

Just a month before the earthquake of April 18, 1906, Bill, a coachman, along California street, he saw a glittering object, stooped, and picked up the pearl. It contained 22 cents in small change.

"Look, Anna, it must be worth $200," said Bill as he displayed the find to his wife at home.

She fondled it longingly. "It belongs to someone else," she sighed. "We must advertise for the owner."

They did so. No one claimed it. When the quake came the Hills tossed the pearl in with their other belongings. Year passed, and still the Hills advertised for the owner of the pearl.

Ruling Against Parr Is Upheld

The State Supreme Court in San Francisco has upheld the state railroad commission in its ruling that the Parr-Richmond Terminal company must desist from alleged rebating practices on car unloading that favored certain shippers.

The local firm had sought a review by the court on the commission's order, which held that discriminatory rates were in effect indirectly.

The suit was opposed by the State Terminal of San Francisco, the Enchanted and Howard Terminals, and the Board of Port Commissioners in the Eastbay.

The Parr company has stated that what has been forbidden for the Parr firm, is being allowed at the Stockton, Howard, Enchanted and other terminals.

The City of Richmond, acting through its attorney, T. M. Carlson, supported the contention of the Parr Richmond Corporation in its right to amend its tariff to permit any shippers to perform the car loading and unloading services on the terminals of Richmond in meeting similar competition elsewhere.

When the case was argued, always the case was returned to a bureau drawer after the husband and wife examined it, thinking of the money it might bring. Bill died in 1931. Anna was incapacitated by an automobile accident in 1932.

Her life savings dwindled away until now she has but $600, and the pearl. Last week she took out the now slightly tarnished, out-moded bauble, recalled Bill and his navy uniform of the era of gas in his and champagne dinner, before the quake and fire. She could picture the $200 Bill said the pearl was worth.

"Parr it still belongs to someone else," she thought.

So she placed another advertisement in the newspapers, still trying to find the owner after 29 years.

KRATZER WILL BE AGENT FOR OLDSMOBILES

C. C. Kratzer, well known local automobile dealer, has been appointed Oldsmobile dealer for Richmond according to an announcement made yesterday by the manufacturer.

After 28 years of automobile dealing, 20 of which were spent in Richmond, Kratzer now offers local motorists the new Oldsmobile line which has won praise wherever it has been shown.

In taking over the Oldsmobile line, Kratzer will continue with a General Motors product, and one which he has had in mind as a desirable agency for a number of years. He has established salesrooms at 333 Eleventh street in Miller's garage and from that point will devote his business energy in pushing Oldsmobiles sales. He already has several models of the new cars on display at his salesrooms.

"I regard the Oldsmobile as one of the best General Motors products," said Kratzer. "I am thoroughly sold upon its good qualities myself and stand ready to demonstrate them in every practical manner, to my friends in Richmond. The Oldsmobile has pleased owners among a number of Richmond people and it shall be my object to extend this popularity to a wider field of car purchasers."

SERA In Drive To End Frauds

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—UP—A statewide drive to "chisel the chiselers" off relief rolls was begun today in preparation for the new relief program.

Agents are to check relief records in nearly all the counties to make sure jobs under the new program go to men who need them, said C. I. Schottland, assistant administrator.

It also was announced that henceforth the "emergency" in the relief setup would be dropped and the administrative agency would be known as the State Relief Administration. Counties also are to drop the "emergency."

Schottland explained that in some cases the agents would compare relief rolls with industrial payrolls before certain groups could be re-certified for the new jobs.

Paul Davis, relief director here, said single men on the rolls were expected to be reduced 1,000 cases in San Francisco alone by the check. Already applicants have dropped from 60 to 20 a day, but Davis said he did not know whether the new policy or increasing employment was responsible.

Chamber To Start Big Housing Drive

A campaign will be launched April 29 to improve housing conditions, both as to home modernization and new home construction, was announced yesterday by P. M. Sanford, president of the Chamber of Commerce. It is to be sponsored by the Chamber, working in close cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration, and the major detail in which it will differ from most other drives of the kind will be the strong emphasis to be placed on new construction.

J. Melville, representative of the Federal Housing Administration for this district, declared he believed Richmond offers the greatest possibilities he has seen for new construction in any of the cities where he has helped conduct housing drives. Cliff Anzlin, head of the "A" for northern California, will take an active part in the effort and will be the principal speaker at a meeting Monday night in the Builders' Exchange, 248 Fourteenth street, it was announced by Fred Newsom, who has been named general chairman of the building campaign. Newsom will preside at the Monday night meeting.

The gathering is to be attended by 100 or more property owners, real estate men, manufacturers of building material, lumber and supply dealers and all others interested according to the Chamber of Commerce, which has been in charge of arranging the details.

This meeting will be followed by another on Tuesday, April 23, at which further plans will be developed and arrangements made for launching the drive.

On Monday, April 29, the campaign will be in full swing, with headquarters open in the Syndicate building, adjacent to the rooms occupied by the Chamber, and with workers from the ranks of the SERA engaged in a city-wide campaign to secure names of those interested in home remodeling or new construction.

It is hoped that plans may be developed for the construction of a modern house in one of the better residential districts to emphasize the new construction feature of the campaign.

A survey indicates that comfortable and reasonably modern homes in Richmond are all occupied and that a tremendous opportunity exists for a building program that will be of inestimable benefit to all the people of the community. Government aid in financing should make it possible to get such a movement under way, it was said.

President Sanford said he desired to extend interest in the movement over the widest possible area and had therefore named a committee representative of many walks of life to participate in the executive direction of the drive. They are: Henry Creeger, Ralph Herzen, A. C. Nelson, A. P. Hill, J. H. Miller, C. T. Douglas, George Thornton, Fred Caudle, George Smith, L. Hislop, C. Merz, C. J. Alexander, E. H. Higgins, T. E. Ward, Ira Scott, Sam C. Louis, E. Navallier, George Friend, Peter Larson, R. W. Timmons, George Edwards and Richard Johnson.

The El Cerrito district is to be included in the Richmond campaign, Newsom announced.

Shooting Lover To Face Trial

MARTINEZ, April 19.—Trinidad Sandoval, 35, father of six children, will be given his preliminary examination tomorrow morning before Justice of the Peace A. E. Clark of Danville on charges he shot Alice Nolasco, 17, five times on December 7, 1934, with intent to kill her.

Sandoval, a San Ramon gardener, has been held in the county jail here since the shooting, charged with attempted murder. The girl who resides in Yuma Valley, was released from the county hospital here only last week after physicians had despaired several times of saving her life.

The shooting, Sandoval is said to have admitted, occurred after the girl had told him that their friendly relations must cease.

Seated in a car at Danville, Sandoval is charged to have whipped out a gun in the presence of the girl's mother and to have fired several bullets into her body. As she stumbled from the machine and sought to flee, Sandoval fired several more times.

Program Is Held By Rotary Club

Mrs. Irma St. John was accompanist.

Dr. Powell sketched the rise of the great munition makers of Europe and America and of the swollen war time profits they made out of the misery of millions of human beings. "I am no pacifist and in a war of defense of my native land trust that my two sons will uphold the best traditions of my ancestors in defending their country, but I believe that if a war is ever again threatened that plans to conscript war profits shall be effected with the same efficiency that has been used to take the youth of our land into the trenches to fight. Take romance out of war and show our young people that they go to burrow in the mud of the earth and in addition to fighting the enemy that they battle against vermin, disease and terror."

The membership steadfastly turned down one amendment after another, rejecting every effort to tamper with the bill as the administration wanted it. The bill clearly was in line for a major victory.

It was the first major New Deal bill the House has been permitted to vote on without a gag.

"It has been predicted," said Doughton, "that the bill would be ripped to pieces. But I'm proud to say that not a single change has been made."

Then the final vote began and the Administration rolled up more than 11 votes to each of the opposition.

Thirteen Democrats, two Farmer-Laborites and 18 Republicans joined forces against the bill. Led by Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, 228 Democrats put it across with the help of Minority Leader Bertrand Snell and 76 other Republicans, one Farmer-Laborite and six Progressives.
